

Tutorials

and education

It looks like you are trying to talk about tutorials.
Do you want help with that?

Tutorials

- Everyone needs to learn the rules
 - Unlike books, movies etc, games have different input methods
 - They do not always translate between games
- No one likes being hand-held

Adams's 8 ways to make a bad tutorial

1. Force the player to take the tutorial
2. Make the player read a lot
3. Describe buttons and menu items badly
4. Leave steps out
5. Punish inexperience
6. Patronize/humiliate the player
7. Force the player to complete the tutorial
8. Don't give them a tutorial at all

Jenelius's additional way of making a bad tutorial

- Have a tutorial that is completely separate from the rest of the game.

Let the player fail

Let them try.

Let them fail.

Let them learn.

Let them play.

Add-on to assignment

Today:

- Consider how the player learns new features today.
- For your new/enhanced level - make it more pedagogical!
